

THE CLAIMS

We claim:

- 5       1. A plastic container with two separate compartments, each said compartment having a resealable closure, said container comprising:
  - a.       a plastic container having flexible front, middle, and rear layers attached along the lowermost end of the plastic container and along two side edges;
  - 10       b.       a front layer and rear layer of said plastic container, each said layer having an interlocking sealing closure extending the length of the upper most end of said layers; and
  - c.       a middle layer of said plastic container having one or a plurality of interlocking sealing closures comprised of at least two strips on either
15       side near the top of said middle layer, said closure strips extending the length of the upper most end of said middle layer and capable of being engaged and disengaged with respect to the corresponding interlocking sealing closures on the front and rear layers of said plastic container.
- 20       2. The container of claim 1 wherein said middle layer extends above the upper most side of the front and rear layers.
3. The container of claim 1 wherein the layers are attached on three sides by 25       means of heat-sealing.
4. The container of claim 1 wherein the middle layer has a plurality of ridges positioned on the extended length of the upper most end of said middle layer.
- 30       5. The use of container of claim 1 for storage of goods.